

English 106
 Proposal and Presentation Rubric
 Spring 2005

| Front Material | Points (0-5) |
|--|----------------------|
| The front material presents an accurate, brief summary of the proposal. | |
| Proposal | Points (0-10) |
| The Proposal clearly states a problem and a possible solution. | |
| The organization is logical and contributes to the overall thesis of the Proposal. Moves between different sections of the report are clearly signaled to the reader. | |
| Research is incorporated effectively; that is, claims are appropriately supported, the paraphrases and quotations are used to further the Proposal's thesis and are not just padding, the writer has woven citations into the text smoothly, and the sources contribute to the author's point rather than controlling the paper. | |
| The sources are appropriate and credible according to use. | |
| The Proposal follows MLA page format, including in-text citations. This means that every time words or ideas are taken from another source it is documented correctly. | |
| Overall, the Proposal is free of mechanical and grammatical errors. | |
| Works Cited | Points (0-10) |
| The Works Cited page adheres to correct MLA format. | |
| Appendix | Points (0-5) |
| The appendix contributes meaningfully to the Proposal and is in correct MLA format. | |
| Presentation | Points (0-20) |
| Average of audience evaluation | |
